Nicholas School Student Council

Description and Mission

The Nicholas School Student Council (NSSC) of the Nicholas School of the Environment and Earth Sciences is an advocate on behalf of professional students, representing the interests and concerns of these students to the Duke University and Nicholas School community. The NSSC is a group of elected and volunteer-appointed Masters of Environmental Management (MEM) and Masters of Forestry (MF) students that serves as an advisory body to the faculty and administration, and provides a conduit between the student body, faculty, and administration.

Through the NSSC, professional students address with faculty and administration issues that include, but are not limited to, academic programs and curricula, courses, professional development, and long-range goals of the school. Through the service of its officers and representatives, NSSC aims to improve the quality of student life at the Nicholas School.

The main purposes of NSSC are:

1. To facilitate communication between Nicholas School professional students, faculty, and administration.
2. To represent the interests and concerns of Nicholas School professional students to the Duke University community.
3. To improve the quality of student life at the Nicholas School.

NSSC was formerly known as the SAC (Student Action Committee).

All NSSC members can be reached by emailing nssc-reps@nicholas.duke.edu.
